The fever at Memphis is still spreading and the mortality is on the increase.

The Greenback party of Maine, like the Democratic party of Wisconsin, is a thing of the past.

Senator Carpenter got even with Senator Conkling when he playfully poked the latter in the ribs and smilingly said: "Well, boy, how do you like it?"

If the Democratic State Central Committee could only enforce the Yazoo plan in Wisconsin, there would be rejoicing in the Bourbon camp. It wouldn't be necessary to scratch "Uncle" Daniel Wells on the back. They would get somebody else.

A dispatch from Springfield, Illinois, says that the Tilden and Hendricks men are organizing for the campaign next year, and will demand the renomination of the old ticket. That move is bold enough to make the Wisconsin Democracy shudder.

Ex-Governor Palmer, of Illinois, who has really an eye on the Presidency, is regarded as a dangerous man by the Tilden-Hendricks wing of the Democratic party in this State. Palmer is as harmless as Watterson, and has about as much show for the Democratic nomination.

The new tramp law of Pennsylvania, which is pretty severe on that class of illars, will go into effect on the 15th of the present month. The New York Times predicts that it will stimulate an emigration of undesirable persons into that State. Tramps from necessity have been very few and far between this year.

If it had not been for the resolution of 1859, the Madison Democrat would have been completely floored this campaign. It may have an opportunity to attempt to prove the consistency of the Democratic party in Wisconsin in 1877 and 1879, in other words to show that the Fond du Lac platform and the Madison platform are one and the same thing.

There will be soon issued from a certain office in Washington a document which the Democrats should use as a campaign document. It won't contain any "Republican lies" to bother the Democrats. It will simply give the facts about the public debt and what has been done to reduce that debt. It will show by official figures how much has been paid in thirteen years, and what have been the receipts and expenditures of the government each year since the war. These figures are also taken from the records in the Treasury Department, and while they may make some Democrats blush, they will be of so much importance in the way of disseminating reliable and valuable information, that no Democratic campaign committee can afford to be without them.

THE WHEAT SUPPLY-DOMESTIC AND FOREIGN.

The question as to the quantity of wheat the United States will have for exportation this year, is a very important one, and commercial circles are making it the chief topic of conversation and speculation. For a long while cotton was king, but that day has passed, and wheat to-day yields a greater influence in commercial circles than ever cotton did or ever will. So deep has been the interest in the question of the probable supply and demand of wheat that dealers and boards of trade statisticians have been hard at work ever since the harvest begun, making calculations concerning the supply, as well as the demand, of wheat both in the United States and foreign countries. The estimate placed on the production of wheat in the United States for the present year, is 430 million bushels. Some have fixed it at 420 million bushels. Others who desire to keep within reasonable limits, place the yield at 400 million bushels. The quantity of wheat required for home consumption is estimated at 250 million bushels which includes 43 millions needed for seedling next spring. Taking the lowest estimate yet made of the probable yield in this country—400 million bushels—and this will leave at least 150 millions for exportation.

Then comes the prime question "what demand will there be in Europe for American wheat?" There will be a large deficiency in England and a large one in France. A Chicago dealer and statistician, estimates that the total wheat deficit in Europe will not fall far below 225 million bushels, and that the United States will be called upon to supply at least 150 millions of this amount. All these estimates as a matter of course, are nothing but speculations. They are made however by men whom the public regard very competent judges of the wheat production of the world. Yet, they must be received with more or less allowance. As a matter of fact, it is utterly impossible for any man to estimate with reasonable certainty, the amount of wheat the United States and foreign countries have produced in 1879. The crop, so far as this country is concerned, is much greater than ever before known, and judging from the amount exported and consumed in previous years, the dealers think they are justified in reckoning the crop of the present year at from 400 to 450 millions of bushels.
We give these figures for what they are

THE FEVER.

Rapid Increase of New Cases—Thirty-four New Cases—Enforcing Quarantine Regulations.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., August 11—There is but little news to report to-night, save the rapid increase of new cases both in and outside the city limits.

The principal event of the day was the large funeral cortege of the Rev. J. H. Ridley, the colored preacher of Collins Chapel who died of the fever this morning. The crowd of negroes who were in attendance at the grave was estimated at 500.

Thirty-four cases were reported to the Board of Health to-day.

The police are arresting all violators of the quarantine regulations which were recently inaugurated against all unaccimated people. Six persons from off the Onycha Belle, which recently came from St. Louis, were arraigned this morning for trying to evade these regulations. Five were sentenced to go to Camp Marks, and the sixth, who had the fever last year, was placed under bonds as a guarantee to the authorities that he would be self-sustaining.

SPRAGUE SENSATION.

The New York "World's" Account of the Incidents at Narragansett Pier.

NEW YORK, August 12—The World has the following account of the difficulty at Narragansett Pier:

"Senator Conkling reached ex-Governor Sprague's house as a visitor on Wednesday evening. He remained there as a visitor next day, and was on the hotel piazza during the next evening, conversing with some ladies. During Friday afternoon Governor Sprague was observed driving about Narragansett Pier, having been at home entertaining his guests the night previous.
He had a gun with him, which it is believed that he loaded earlier in the day. Finally, he drove to the rear of his house, which is about a mile and a half from the pier, and came through the house in a somewhat excited condition. He got out on the piazza where he found Senator Conkling conversing with Mrs. Sprague, who was at the window. Governor Sprague then said addressing Senator Conkling, 'Are you armed, sir?' and Conkling replied, 'No, I am not.' 'Then,' said ex-Governor Sprague, 'I give you five minutes to quit these premises. If you are not away I will fire at you.' Ex-Governor Sprague said then to have made use of some further exasperating language. Senator Conkling, seeming much surprised, but remembering that he was under ex-Governor Sprague's roof, rose and walked a few feet away, while Mrs. Sprague came out of the house and stood between them.
Ex-Governor Sprague stood looking at Senator Conkling, while a carriage drove up which had been ordered to take Mrs.
Sprague for drive. When Mrs. Sprague found that ex-Governor Sprague was apparently determined on an unpleasant scene, she called for her hat and shawl, which Mrs. Martin, a friend and guest in the house, brought her. In the house at the time, as guests, were Mr. and Mrs.
Martin and Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Alexander, as well as Senator Conkling.
After Mr. Sprague repeated his order to Conkling to quit his house, there was some hesitation on the part of the New York Senator as to what should be done, but seeing no hope of a rational solution, he finally took his hat, and entering the carriage, went down to the pier, stopping on the way at Billington's restaurant. Becoming had arrived there and got out of the conveyance than Governor Sprague, who had followed, came up.
There was an excited and threatening colloquy between the two outside in the most public spot in the whole place, and there it came to pass that the most exaggerated rumors were set in motion. Sifted down the foregoing are the principal facts in the case so far as Mr. Conkling and Mr.
Sprague are concerned.

QUEER RESULT OF INSANITY.

An Insane Woman Developing the Power to French Remarkable Sermons.

From the Albany (Ga.) News.

A lady of the Seventh district of Worth county has become insane on the subject of religion. Her demerit was first noticed about a month ago, soon after the close of a protracted meeting at Union Baptist Church, near her home. She attended the different services very regularly and seemed deeply impressed and troubled from their first commencement. A short while before the meeting closed the joined the church. Coming back home her incoherent, madened and rambling conduct was noticed by her husband and children, and they became terribly excited and wrought up about it. She went raving about the house and yard with a bucket of water, baptizing everything in her pathway. She baptized her husband and each one of her children, and while doing this she had heard but once or twice. Although an unlettered woman (her husband will swear this), she reads any chapter in the Bible readily, pronouncing correctly and distinctly, paying attention to punctuation points, etc. She presches nearly all the choicest words and displays great wisdom and knowledge in the handling of different subjects. Although not a Mason, she knows all the mysteries of that mysterious craft by heart. Dozens of Masons have gone to see her, and they all come away dumbfounded. Her husband has come to the conclusion that she is a witch. She has attempted acts of violence, but as yet done no harm. He, with outside assistance, at one time tried to incarcerate her in one of the rooms of the house, but the doors became unmanageable and wouldn't stay locked. She hasn't slept in eighteen days and nights, and during that time has taken but a few morsels of food. This is one of the strangest cases we have ever heard of. Hundreds are flocking to see the frenzied woman.

TERRIBLE STORM.

Effects of Last Night's Storm in and Around Madison.

MADISON, August 11—A very heavy and extremely sudden storm struck the city last night about 8 o'clock, accompanied by a heavy rain and fierce lightning. A little sidewheel steamer, called the Scutanawbequon, was returning from Winnebago with a picnic party of about forty. The storm struck her when about in the middle of Lake Monona, carrying away her smokestack and wooden awning. Great consternation prevailed among the passengers, the general fear existing that all would go to the bottom. Her engine was damaged and it was impossible to keep her out of the trough of the sea. The waves were running very high, and each moment seemed as though she must be engulfed, but after floating at the mercy of the waves for half an hour amid the inky blackness of the night she struck the piling of the trestlework of the Northwestern road, where all the passengers were soon taken from the steamer, but the vessel was badly damaged.
The Bay State, another small steamer, on the same lake, had her smoke stack, steam whistle, and wooden awning blown off and drifted nearly across the lake from Tonyawatha, but got in smooth water, made temporary repairs, and reached her port. The Lake Mendota Captain Freeman's propeller Mendota proved herself a staunch craft. The storm struck her in the centre of the lake with a large party on board, but she weathered the storm successfully.

In the town of Marshall, this county, a hail storm prevailed, hail falling as large as pigeons' eggs, covering the ground three or four inches deep. On the north side of buildings hail piled up from one to three feet deep. Tobacco, corn, clover and vegetable to a large extent in that town are completely destroyed. Two thousand lights of glass were broken in the village of Marshall. Considerable damage is reported to tobacco in the town of San Prairie. The storm was confined to a somewhat limited space, but has done considerable damage.

FATAL STABBING.

A Horrible Stabbing Case at Urbana, Illinois, Between Two Business Men and Partners.

URBANA, Aug. 11—A horrible case of fatal stabbing occurred here to-day, in an altercation between Captain J. M. Tracy and Alvah H. Whitcomb, both business men and partners as abstractors. Tracy cut Whitcomb in the abdomen so that his bowels hung out, the knife being turned round and round, cutting him all to pieces internally. Another stab entered higher up, near the breast bone, and penetrated into the abdomen. Great excitement followed the horrible occurrence all the afternoon. Whitcomb's dying declaration and sworn to was, that he and his partner, Tracy, have been having trouble between themselves; that Tracy to-day called to him in the street to come to his office. He went up as desired and Tracy struck him with a heavy paper weight, when a fight ensued, during which Tracy disarmed him, as above; that he had no weapon, but held Tracy's hand to keep him from cutting him. N. N. Matthews, Prosecuting Attorney, says there is abundant evidence that Tracy has frequently threatened to kill Whitcomb. The statement on Tracy's side is very dissimilar, and makes it clear case of self-defense. Tracy's face is badly bruised, and his clothes are cut. When the officers and others arrived Whitcomb had Tracy down and was pounding him. While they were stanching the severed artery on his temple they discovered that he was having a seizure, and told him of it, but he refused to get up, and began to scream. Several physicians were summoned, who immediately declared the case fatal, and say he will die before morning. Tracy was a captain in the Twenty-fifth Illinois Infantry in the late war, and is justice of the Peace. Whitcomb was formerly a route agent in the mail service, and is a brother of E. T.
Whitcomb, Bill Clerk in the Illinois Legislature, and for several years Circuit Clerk here. Whitcomb's wife is absent in Kansas.

IMMIGRANTS.

NEW YORK, August 11—J. A. Becher, of Milwaukee, President of the State Board of Immigration of Wisconsin, is in this city to look after the interest of emigrants bound for Wisconsin. He visited the Commissioners of Immigration to-day, and consulted as to the best way to facilitate immigration to this State. It has been suggested that a fund be raised and placed in the hands of the Commissioners here to aid worthy emigrants to reach Wisconsin. It is probable Mr. Becher's visit will result in the establishment of such a fund.

WIND AND HAIL.

FOND DU LAC, August 11—A heavy hailstorm visited this section last night, with terrible lightning, destroying a large quantity of farm property, and striking some places in the city, mostly barns and cattle.
Several fires could be seen outside of the city. The damage cannot as yet be estimated.

CHICAGO GOSSIP.

Chicago, August 11—The financial condition of this city, has greatly improved, since the return to specie payments. Prosperity is overtaking us slowly but surely.
Gilt-edged speculation, consequent upon a booming currency—is a thing of the past, as far as Chicago is concerned. All sensible people are beginning to comprehend and realize that an inflation of paper currency, with nothing substantial behind it, is a bugbear and delusion.

Crime of all kinds, is very prevalent in Chicago at present. Murders, suicides, etc., are almost of daily occurrence. Generally minor criminals, or those who steal a loaf of bread or pair of boots, are langusning in jail, or serving out a term of years in the penitentiary, while some of our thieving ex-office holders are free as the air of heaven, and living sumptuously.
It is said that our late defaulting ex-City Treasurer, D. A. Gage, is running a large hotel in Denver, Colorado, purchased with cash down and lying in princely style.
His Chicago friends, when partaking of the hospitality, will doubtless congratulate him, and with a hearty shake of the hand, feel proud that he is a Chicagoan. Any public servant here, who takes a small amount, is looked upon with contempt and MISCELLANEOUS.

derision, and given the cold shoulder, as being a disgrace to the profession.

"The Mayor of the whole city," is using his utmost efforts to secure the next Governorship, and eventually the Presidency.
His hopes and anticipations, in that direction, will prove like a gas-inflated paper balloon, bursting at the least undue pressure, and like the party who represents—eventually scattering to the four winds of heaven.

The city is overcrowded with professional gentlemen, as well as political bummers. We have 832 physicians and surgeons, not including the vast army of regular quacks. Your readers will receive from this an idea as to the extent of our buying grounds—beyond any description of mine. Our 1202 lawyers and notaries may give you the idea that we are a very Law-yer abiding people, but we are not. Democracy at present, prevails to an alarming extent. There are 193 wood and coal dealers. Coal at present is $4.50 per ton, for range and chestnut, and $3.00 for soft. There are 150 coal merchants, some of them very large dealers, wealthy and professionally honest and honorable men, but always weighing on their own scales.

There are 35 lines of street railway in the city, owned and operated by the powerful and rich corporations. Five cents is the fare on any line, from the starting point to the end of the route. Application has been made to the City Council, by stock companies, to build and operate three lines of elevated railway, through each division of the city,—no action has yet been taken, and the citizens through whose influence the scheme was inaugurated are denounced by those who own property on the streets where such lines are proposed to run. It may yet fall through,—but I think not. Chicago certainly needs more railway; the constant increase of population, more than keeps pace with traveling facilities.

The Knights of Pythias, have eleven subordinate lodges and four endowment sections in Chicago. The Grand Lodge meets at Bloomington on the third Tuesday in October next.

Our Janesville excursionists will receive a cordial welcome on the 15th. The Tremont house, on the corner of Lake and Dearborn streets, will extend its well known hospitality, and everything possible will be done to make the brief visit pleasant and profitable to all concerned.

Tramp Harvesters.

From the Cleveland Herald.

Any one of our farmers, with few exceptions, who stands in a Western wheat field of 2,000 acres for the first time witnessing the operation of harvesting cannot fail to be moved by the wonderful elenment which four or five men with machinery and horses will cut, bind and stack this immense piece of grain. These four or five men actually do as much as a hundred of their kind could do with the old-fashioned "cradle" and the straw band by hand, which is largely used by our farmers even yet—still they have reason for pride in it, because the average field of the Western wheat grower is twenty or thirty acres, few have places of one hundred acres, and many, a great many, do not sow more than ten or twelve, and it plainly would not pay to purchase machinery for so small an extent of work.
One of the strange fashions which mark the Western wheat harvest is the peculiar class of people upon whom the remote dwellers on the frontier depend upon to aid them in gathering their grain. They rely first upon the emigrants who come into the country to settle, subject to the homestead laws, and, second, on the "wheat harvest tramps." These "tramps" start in the West, and follow the harvest train. Some keep on the line of the river, while others drive in wagons across the country.
They work in Texas until her harvest is sowed, then they strike for the Mississippi river and there take a boat north; when they reach a point where the wheat has not been cut, there they disembark and at once go to work. Finding here they go again further north, so keeping on until Minnesota is reached, ceasing only when the broad fields of wheat on the Red river and Dakota are cut. Other men of this class get wagons at the Rio Grande and work right through North overland. Hundreds and hundreds of their whitened vehicles may be seen foraging through Kansas to-day.
They have cut the crop of Iowa (they have sowed that of Southern Kansas, they are at work on those of Middle Kansas, and the eyes of the Nebraska farmers are anxiously turned to the Southern horizon every evening, looking for the white tops of wagons of the Bohemian harvesters who are the very best of harvest hands, and soon, when they have finished their season's work they are on their way to Dakota, they will disappear just as the wind listeth.

A Nice Little Romance.

From an Exchange.

The story of John Bess, a young man, at present residing in Rising Sun, Indiana, and his two sisters, Annie and Maggie, is quite interesting. John and his two sisters were born in Charlestown, West Virginia.
In 1865, when they were quite young, they were orphans and were sent to the orphan asylum at Cincinnati. John stayed in the asylum one year, and was then taken to Pomona, Ohio, and shortly afterward his oldest sister, Maggie, visited him.
They then parted for what they thought a brief season, but which really proved to be a period of thirteen years. In December last, John went to Williamsburg, Ohio, when a sudden determination seized him to find out the whereabouts of his sister, and acting upon the advice of his friends to try printer's ink, sent a "personal" to one of the Cincinnati papers, and he soon received a reply which made his heart leap for joy, and on opening found it to be from his long lost sister who was living in Cincinnati. You may imagine he was not lost in hunting her up. This good luck induced John to try to find the other sister.
A few weeks ago he went from Rising Sun to Ironton on a tow boat, and on his return stopped in Cincinnati, where he recently found trace of this sister, and was soon in her presence. The sisters had not seen each other, nor their brother, for thirteen years, and neither knew that the other lived in Cincinnati. One of the sisters had been in Alabama, where she remained a long time, and the other had been all the way to Colorado and back, and John—there is no telling where he has not been. After this long separation their first meeting is more easily imagined than described. This is his strange history. John does not propose to let them go out of his sight for any length of time.

One of the most extraordinary feats of memory was exhibited at the New York Post Office last week, in connection with quarterly examination of the clerks in the box department. Each clerk was given 2,000 cards, upon which were written memory the names of the boxholders and of those who receive mail in the boxes of others. Robert Miller took first place, missing only three names, and John Tobin second, missing four.

In a small frame cottage at No. 47 Sherman street, a thoughtful, intelligent mechanic has toiled for years. He has extended his workshop into the street, and from observation by canvas screens behind the doors and windows, and the latter were guarded with such zealous care that no prying eyes were able to discover and rob him of his secret. To-day the veil of secrecy was lifted and revealed the finished work in all its beauty and grandeur. The clock is a masterpiece of art and science. It is a clock of the type known as a "strasburg" clock. About twenty years ago it began to draw plans for the clock which to-day stands completed at 47 Sherman street. A company was organized to supply the needful cash, and during the past two or three years Meier has abandoned all other business and bestowed his whole time and attention upon the work in hand. A Richardson, of Richardson Bros., Janesville, made us a pleasant call last week. He came here to see us and to purchase the interest of President J. C. Davidson in the Empire Cross Spring Company. The trade was consummated, and Davidson retired from the Company, but he hangs right on to his Cross Spring bugles, because he believes, and so do his patrons, that they are the best and most reliable in the world.

Richardson and wife visited friends at Evansville last week. —Prof. A. R. Crandall, of Lexington, Kentucky, arrived in town last Wednesday to visit friends. Prof. Crandall graduated from Milton College and also from Harvard College, and for several years past has been Professor of Natural Science at the University of Kentucky, and for a time was State Geologist.

Richardson. —Subscribe for the Weekly Gazette and get the largest and best paper in the State. —Mr. Sperry, representing the well known and deservedly popular commission house of Chandler, Brown & Co., Milwaukee, was in town last Thursday.

Adams, of Newport, Arkansas, arrived in town last Thursday and will remain here some time as the guest of her father, W. B. Wells. —Mrs. Baker, of Madison, was in town last week visiting Mr. and Mrs. Williams. —We were in error in announcing that Miss A. B. McCracken was to teach the grammar department of the graded school the coming year. The board reduced the wages, and Miss McCracken declines to accept the position. A teacher for that department has not been engaged at the present writing.

—M. Wells Crumb died on the morning of the 8th inst., after a long illness. For many months deceased was confined to the house, his disease being consumption, and was a great sufferer and to him death was a welcome visitor. He has been a resident of our town for many years and carried on a large farming business, until his health compelled him to leave his farm. His bereaved wife, son and daughter have the kind sympathy of their large circle of friends. The funeral services took place at the house on Saturday afternoon, Rev. H. H. Williams, assisted by Rev. Gardner and Dana, and the remains were interred in the village cemetery.

C. S. Jackson and G. M. Hanchett, with their families, returned last evening from Lake Koshkonong, where they have been spending a few days. They report a happy time, and are full of praise for the lake.

Mr. C. E. Bowles, the enterprising agent of the Singer machine, now drives around in a new wagon just received. It is embellished with attractive signs, and makes a gay looking vehicle for the business.

Mrs. Truman Mosher, who died Saturday evening, was buried yesterday afternoon. Rev. Mr. Fayle conducted the funeral services. Mr. and Mrs. Mosher had been married but a few months, and the death of the young wife falls heavily upon the fond husband.

Electric annunciators are being put in the new Jeffers hotel, throughout. Almost three-quarters of a mile of wire is necessary in order to connect all the rooms with the office, and the last of it was put in this afternoon. Mr. J. W. Bates, who is greatly interested in electric matters, takes charge of the job.

The tickets for the excursion to Chicago next Friday are selling like hot cakes in time of famine. The price, $2 for the round trip, is almost nominal, and as it allows nearly all day in Chicago, many will improve this rare chance of visiting that city. Those who have not got tickets and who care about having a seat should speak in time—which means now.

Mrs. Jane Cleland died yesterday afternoon at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. John Gowdy. She had reached the ripe age of eighty-eight years, and has many relatives in this vicinity, among her children living being George, James, and Samuel Cleland, of Center, and Mr. John Gowdy of this city. She has lived in this country for over twenty years, and many will learn with regret of her demise.

The Knights of Pythias annual parade this evening will be viewed with interest. The knights are to form at their hall on Main street, and, headed by the Bower City Band, will march to Court street, thence to Bluff, thence to North Second, down to North Main, down Main to Milwaukee, then west to Academy, on Academy to Pleasant, then to Franklin, along Franklin to Milwaukee, then on Main to their hall.

Always on time. M. C. Smith & Son have been receiving fall and winter clothing of latest styles and best fits, and suitings of such a quantity as to suit all, and such a quality as can't help but wear well. Their new goods are not only worth looking at but they are worth buying and worth wearing. The wise ones will not wait until they commence to shiver, but will put in their orders. Their new stock is certainly fine.

If anyone wants to see the boss camp, meeting or picnic of the season, just get a microscope and look at the leaves of some of the shade trees. They are literally covered with parasites, who are evidently enjoying life to the full extent. We took a peep at some leaves to-day which Dr. Chittenden had taken from his trees. The parasites on a single leaf number hundreds. The white cottony substance is evidently where the hatching process is going on.

Wallack's combination is to be at the Opera house next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, August 19, and 20. The first night the "Comedy of Errors" will be given, and the second night "Scrap of Paper." The Chicago papers of late have contained glowing accounts of the success which the company has had with these plays in Chicago, and with four stars and a wonderful support, there is no sort of question but that the entertainments will be of a class to merit the largest and most enthusiastic audiences here.

SHOCKING SIGHT.

A Bloody Sight.

A shocking suicide occurred about six miles northwest of the city yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock, the victim being Patrick H. Flaherty, a man who is widely known in this vicinity. For some time past he has been acting rather strangely in some respects. He informed his family that certain persons in the city were determined to send him to State's prison, and told them of a "big row" he had with them. He seemed to be in great fear lest they would arrest him, and talked much about it. It appears that he was really embarrassed financially, and that his property was badly involved, and that there were some floating debts against him also. This aggravated his mental bewilderment, if it did not cause it, and on this point his mind seemed to give way, though in other respects he seemed rational. A week ago yesterday he came to the city, and was noticed sitting on a beer keg in front of a saloon for two hours and more. He would say nothing, and seemed to act queerly, but of this nothing particular was thought. It appears that on the same day he signed his brother James' name to a $30 note and had it discounted at the First National bank. On returning home he told his family that he had a regular row with some men in Janesville, and that they would probably have him arrested. His friends thought that possibly this was true, as he told it in such a straight-forward manner, and seemed rational in other respects, and their suspicions of his insanity were not aroused until later when his actions began to grow stranger and stranger.

That was the last time he visited the city. Last Wednesday he told his brother about the forgery of his name, and that too seemed to worry him greatly. He said he did not dare come to the city as certain men here had told him that they would lock him up. He therefore kept close at home. Sunday night about 11 o'clock he came to his brother James' house, about a hundred rods from his own, and said he wanted to sleep all night in his brother's barn, as he feared those fellows from Janesville, with whom he had a row, were coming out after him and they would kill him if they found him at home. He had no hat, coat or vest, and seemed much excited. Yesterday morning about 4 o'clock he returned to his home, and during the forenoon loaded his shot gun and said he was going out after some partridges. His little boy went with him, and when they got out in the woods, Flaherty turned and went back to the house again, saying he was too tired to hunt. During the day he remained around the house. In the afternoon his brother James, in company with Mr. J. W. Bleasdale, came to the city to see if they had any foundation for Flaherty's belief that some of the Janesville men were after him. They told Flaherty they would come here and see the men for him, and they did so. Of course they found there was no foundation for these stories, and that they were purely the imaginations of a diseased brain. As soon as they reached home again Flaherty hurried over to see them. This was about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. James told his brother that there was no reason for his being afraid; that there was no truth to the stories, and he must have imagined them. "My God," exclaimed the poor man, "is it possible that I am going crazy? I am sure that they must have been fooling you, for they told me different. They wanted to keep it from me. The more I think of it, the more sure I am that it is true that they are after me. It becomes clearer and clearer to me."

The half-crazed man then went home. His wife had been talking of going over to see her mother, Mrs. Turnbull, who lives about a half mile distant, and her husband told her she had better get ready and go there. As she started to go up stairs to dress he was pulling off his boots as though preparing to lie down on the bed below. It seems that instead of doing so he put his gun in the window, slipped out of the house, went around and got the gun out of the window, and went to the barn.

The wife soon heard the report of the gun, and in a minute later one of the little children ran out to see what was the matter, and finding the bloody corpse of the father lying near the stable gave the alarm. The wife rushed thither but all was over. It was a heart-rending sight. The man had placed the muzzle of the gun just under the chin and fired, sending the shot upward, crushing through the head, blowing it literally to pieces, fracturing the skull, blowing out the brains, tearing the tongue from its root, and breaking the jaw, so that the man was almost beyond recognition. His hands still clutched the gun, one barrel of which was still loaded. The mangled remains were at once carried into the house, and the authorities notified.

Last evening Justice Wickham went there and held an inquest. The jury consisted of L. B. Carle, J. W. Bleasdale, Robert Lowery, David Lowery, James F. Tracy and Thomas Tracy. They found a verdict in accordance with the above facts, declaring that he had committed suicide while laboring under temporary insanity.

Mr. Flaherty had reached his forty-eighth year, and leaves a family consisting of a wife, and eight children, of whom the eldest is fifteen years. He has lived in his present home about twelve years. His mother is still living, and makes her home with his brother James. He has also two brothers in Chicago, one of whom is a lawyer there, and the other the proprietor of the Cook County Herald. The funeral services were held this afternoon at three o'clock at the family residence.

Acres of Perfume.

Some idea of the magnitude of the business of raising sweet scented flowers for their perfume alone may be gathered from the fact that the English and British India alone consume about 150,000 gallons of handkerchief perfume yearly; that the English revenue from French eau de cologne of itself is $40,000 annually, and the total revenue of England from other imported perfumes is estimated at $300,000 each year. There is one great perfume producing country, France, which uses yearly about 100,000 pounds of scented flowers, 140,000 pounds of rose leaves, 32,000 pounds of tube-rose blossoms, and 20,000 pounds of tuberose blossoms, together with an immense quantity of material used for perfume. Victoria, in New South Wales, is a noted place for the production of perfume-yielding plants, because such plants as the myrtle, sweet verbenia, jasmine, rose lavender, acacia, heliotrope, rosemary, wall-flower, laurel, orange, and the sweet scented geraniums are said to grow there in greater perfection than in any other part of the world. South Australia, it is believed, would be a good place for the growing of these perfume-producing plants, though they are not yet cultivated there to much extent. The value of perfumes to countries adapted to their production may be gathered from the following estimate of their growth and value per acre, as given in the London (Eng.) Journal of Commerce: An acre of jasmine plants, 80,000 in number, will produce 5,000 pounds of flowers, valued at $1,250; an acre of rose trees, 10,000 in number, will yield 2,000 pounds of flowers, valued at $250; an acre of violets, producing 16,000 pounds of flowers, is worth $900; an acre of cassia trees of about 300 ft. tall, 3 years of age, yield 900 pounds of flowers, worth $450; an acre of geranium plants will yield something over 2,000 ounces of distilled oil, worth $400; an acre of lavender, giving over 3,500 flowers for distillation, will yield a value of $1,500.

A Rochester Young Man's Ear.

From the Rochester Express.
D. P. Hicks, a young man of 23, who resides at No. 13 Dean street, and works in a bracket manufactory, is endowed with a wonderful memory for musical sounds, somewhat akin to that which distinguishes the musical prodigy Blind Tom. The only difference is that Mr. Hicks goes no further than to recognize sounds which he has once heard, while Blind Tom is able to reproduce them. Mr. Hicks' specialty is railroad locomotive bells, for which he has an especial fondness, and with which he is able to produce some curious experiments. The sound of a locomotive bell, once heard, he distinctly remembers for any length of time thereafter, and as each locomotive has a number, he can tell that number when he hears the bell ring. There are over 500 locomotives running on the Central Railroad, and of these he has been able to give the numbers accurately through his peculiar faculty. He has been tested many times by persons who were struck by the feat, and who, accompanied by his memory, and not only proved that he knew the different numbers of the locomotives from the sound of their bells, but could also tell any two that rang in the same key. Bells of locomotives running on the road, which he has not heard for years, he instantly recognizes when he strikes on his ten foot piano, and whenever he hears a locomotive whose number is over 500, he knows it at once, as all the new locomotives over that number have bell-alikes.

The Prime of Life.

Between the age of 45 and 60 a man who has properly regulated himself may be considered in the prime of life. His matured strength of constitution renders him almost impervious to an attack of disease, and experience has given soundness to his judgment. His mind is resolute, firm and equal; all his functions are in the brightest order; he assumes a competency over his business; builds a comfortable home; finds the time for his wife and children; and the foundation he has laid in early manhood, and passed through a period of life attended by many gratifications. Having gone over a year or two over 60 he arrives at a standard. But what of the life which is crossed in safety, leads to the valley of "old age," round which the river winds, and then beyond, without boat or causeway, to effect his passage. The bridge is, however, constructed of fragile material, and it depends how it is trodden whether it bends or breaks. Gout and apoplexy are also in the vicinity to waylay the traveler and thrust him from the path; but if he guard up his joints and provide himself with a fitter staff and he may trudge on in safety, and with perfect composure. To quit metaphor, "the turn of life" is a turn either into prolonged walk or into the grave. The system and powers having reached the utmost expansion now begin either to close like a flower at sunset or break down at once. One injudicious stimulant—a single fatal excitement—may force it beyond its strength while a careful supply of props and the withdrawal of all that tends to force a plant will sustain it in beauty and vigor until night has entirely set in.

GENERAL EFFECTS OF FELLOWS' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

"It is Perfectly Safe, and the Taste Pleasant."

THE first apparent effect is to increase the appetite. It acts as a tonic, and causes the food to assimilate properly—thus the system is nourished. It acts on the lungs, and causes the expectoration of mucus, and induces more copious and regular evacuations. Its effect on the nervous system is such that easy expectation is produced, not only are the air passages easily voided of the secretion already deposited, but the collection is carried on in a healthy manner, while the formation of tubercle is retarded. The rapidity with which patients take on flesh while under the influence of the Syrup, testifies to the fact that the preparation can be better adapted to help and nourish the constitution, and hence be more efficacious in all depression of spirits, shaking or trembling of the hands or body, cough, shortness of breath, or consumptive habit. The nerves and muscles become strengthened and the blood purified.
